

Agile Decision-Making

The demands of a fast-paced environment require you to make timely decisions. However, being able to quickly involve the right people and consider the impact those decisions have on your organization – and your patients – are sometimes easier said than done. You can't afford to make rash decisions, but you can't delay decision-making either; the choices you make often have life-altering consequences. At the ANA Leadership Institute™, we understand the daily pressures that you face in making decisions. This self-paced course is designed to give you the skills to create the greatest impact and most effective results with each decision you make.

After completing this course, you will be able to do the following:

- Quickly analyze options, often with limited information.
- Apply a flexible, collaborative approach to decision-making.
- Take actions and make decisions that align with your organizational standards.
- And more.

Think Deep...Act Smart...Lead Better: Become an Agile Decision-Maker.
